

SCOTT A. CARR

Scott A. Carr was born and raised in Austin, Texas, and graduated from The University of Texas at Austin. Following graduation, Scott was hired by one of the premier commercial real estate firms in the country, then known as Cushman Realty Corporation, which later merged with Cushman & Wakefield, Inc; focusing primarily on tenant representation in Texas and throughout the country. While in Houston, Scott represented many prominent companies and successfully negotiated leases on their behalf for nearly 1 million square feet of space.

Scott frequently worked for and with his father, Kenneth D. Carr, while at The University of Texas and decided to move his family back to Austin and work with Carr Development Inc. as a broker and developer.

Actively involved in the community, Scott is a past or current member of: the Real Estate Counsel of Austin (RECA); Leadership Development Council (LDC); Young Men's Business League (YMBL); Seton Forum; Big Brothers Big Sisters; the Austin Breakfast Group; International Council of Shopping Centers (ICSC); and the Urban Land Institute (ULI). As an avid outdoorsman, Scott is also a member of Austin Woods and Waters Club, Coastal Conservative Association, and Ducks Unlimited. Scott and his wife Kim, have two young children, Jack and Caroline.
